

CONTENTS

	Contributors	vii
	Acknowledgments	ix
CHAPTER 1	Networks and Markets: Concepts for Bridging Disciplines James E. Rauch and Gary G. Hamilton	1
CHAPTER 2	Bandwidth and Echo: Trust, Information, and Gossip in Social Networks Ronald S. Burt	30
	DISCUSSION: Another View of Trust and Gossip Joel Sobel	75
CHAPTER 3	The Organization of the Taiwanese and South Korean Economies: A Comparative Equilibrium Analysis Robert C. Feenstra, Gary G. Hamilton, and Deng-Shing Huang	86
	DISCUSSION: Stability, Efficiency, and the National Organization of Production Neil Fligstein	143
CHAPTER 4	Market Organization and Individual Behavior: Evidence from Fish Markets Alan Kirman	155
	DISCUSSION: Comments and Further Thoughts on "Market Organization and Individual Behavior" Alessandra Casella	196
CHAPTER 5	Organizational Genesis, Identity, and Control: The Transformation of Banking in Renaissance Florence John F. Padgett	211

	DISCUSSION: Comments and Further Thoughts on “Organizational Genesis, Identity, and Control: The Transformation of Banking in Renaissance Florence” Gregory Besharov and Avner Greif	258
CHAPTER 6	Black Ties Only? Ethnic Business Networks, Intermediaries, and African American Retail Entrepreneurship James E. Rauch	270
	DISCUSSION: Ethnic Ties and Entrepreneurship: Comment on “Black Ties Only? Ethnic Business Networks, Intermediaries, and African American Retail Entrepreneurship” Marta Tienda and Rebeca Raijman	310
CHAPTER 7	Concluding Remarks: Questions for Policy Alessandra Casella	328
	Index	339