

CONTRIBUTORS

Greg J. Duncan is Distinguished Professor in the Department of Education at the University of California, Irvine and adjunct professor in the School of Education and Social Policy at Northwestern University.

Richard J. Murnane is Thompson Professor of Education and Society at the Harvard Graduate School of Education and research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Joseph G. Altonji is Thomas DeWitt Cuyler Professor of Economics, faculty affiliate at the Economic Growth Center, and member of the executive committee at the Cowles Foundation, all at Yale University, and research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Elizabeth O. Ananat is assistant professor of public policy and economics in the Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University.

Emily Art is doctoral student at the University of Chicago.

Martha J. Bailey is assistant professor in the Department of Economics at the University of Michigan, faculty affiliate of the National Poverty Center, research associate of the Population Studies Center, and faculty research fellow at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Don Boyd is senior fellow at the Nelson A. Rockefeller Institute of Government at the State University of New York at Albany.

Harry Brighouse is professor of philosophy and affiliate professor of educational policy studies at the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Julia Burdick-Will is Ph.D. candidate in the University of Chicago Department of Sociology and predoctoral fellow at the Institute for Educational Sciences.

Vilsa E. Curto is research associate at the Education Innovation Laboratory at Harvard University.

Susan M. Dynarski is associate professor of public policy in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy, associate professor of education in the School of Education at the University of Michigan, and faculty research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

George Farkas is professor in the Department of Education at the University of California, Irvine.

Roland G. Fryer Jr. is professor in the Department of Economics at Harvard University.

Frank F. Furstenberg is professor of sociology and research associate in the Population Studies Center at the University of Pennsylvania.

Anna Gassman-Pines is assistant professor of public policy and psychology and neuroscience in the Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University.

Lisa Gennetian is senior research director of economic studies at the Brookings Institution and managing director of economic mobility at ideas42, a social impact organization applying the tools of behavioral economics to social problems.

Christina M. Gibson-Davis is assistant professor of public policy, sociology, and psychology and neuroscience in the Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University.

David Harding is associate professor in the Department of Sociology and the Ford School of Public Policy, research associate professor in the Population Studies Center and Survey Research Center, and faculty affiliate at the National Poverty Center at the University of Michigan.

Michael Hout is Natalie Cohen Sociology Chair at the University of California, Berkeley.

Meghan L. Howard is project manager at the Education Innovation Laboratory at Harvard University.

Brian A. Jacob is Walter H. Annenberg Professor of Education Policy, professor of economics, and director of the Center on Local, State, and Urban Policy in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan, faculty research fellow at the National Bureau of Economic Research, and executive committee member of the National Poverty Center.

Alexander Janus is graduate student in the sociology department at the University of California, Berkeley.

Marshall Jean is doctoral student at the University of Chicago.

Neeraj Kaushal is associate professor at the Columbia University School of Social Work, research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research, and research fellow at the Institute for the Study of Labor, Bonn, Germany.

David S. Kirk is assistant professor in the Department of Sociology and faculty research associate of the Population Research Center at the University of Texas at Austin.

Jeffrey Kling is associate director for economic analysis at the Congressional Budget Office and faculty research fellow at the National Bureau of Economic Research. He was formerly deputy director of economic studies at the Brookings Institution and faculty member at Princeton University.

Hamp Lankford is professor in the Department of Educational Administration and Policy Studies at the State University of New York at Albany.

Phillip B. Levine is Katharine Coman and A. Barton Hepburn Professor in Economics at Wellesley College, research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research, research affiliate of the National Poverty Center, and member of the National Academy of Social Insurance.

Tamara Wilder Linkow is postdoctoral fellow at the Center on Local, State, and Urban Policy in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan.

Susanna Loeb is professor of education at Stanford University, director of the Institute for Research on Education Policy and Practice, and codirector of Policy Analysis for California Education.

Jens Ludwig is McCormick Foundation Professor of Social Service Administration, Law, and Public Policy in the School of Social Service Administration, the Harris School, and the University of Chicago Law School, director of the University of Chicago Crime Lab, nonresident senior fellow in economic studies at the Brookings Institution, and research associate of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Katherine Magnuson is associate professor in the School of Social Work at the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Richard K. Mansfield is Ph.D. candidate in economics at Yale University.

Charles A. Nelson III is professor of pediatrics at Harvard Medical School and Richard David Scott Chair in Pediatric Developmental Medicine Research at Children’s Hospital Boston.

Meredith Phillips is associate professor of public policy and sociology at the University of California–Los Angeles.

Stephen W. Raudenbush is Lewis-Sebring Distinguished Service Professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of Chicago and chairman of the Committee on Education.

Sean F. Reardon is associate professor in the School of Education at Stanford University.

Matthew Ronfeldt is assistant professor in the School of Education at the University of Michigan.

Brian Rowan is Burke A. Hinsdale Collegiate Professor in the School of Education at the University of Michigan and research professor at the Institute for Social Research.

Robert J. Sampson is Henry Ford II Professor of the Social Sciences at Harvard University and senior advisor of the social science program at the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study.

Lisa Sanbonmatsu is senior researcher at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Gina Schouten is graduate student in the Department of Philosophy at the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Amy Ellen Schwartz is professor of public policy, education, and economics at the Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service and the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development at New York University and director of the NYU Institute for Education and Social Policy.

Patrick Sharkey is assistant professor in the Department of Sociology at New York University.

Margaret A. Sheridan is postdoctoral researcher in the Laboratory of Cognitive Neuroscience at Children's Hospital Boston.

Leanna Stiefel is professor of economics and education policy at the Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service and the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development at New York University and associate director of the NYU Institute for Education and Social Policy.

Megan M. Sweeney is associate professor of sociology at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Jacob L. Vigdor is professor of public policy and economics at the Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University, faculty research fellow at the National Bureau of Economic Research, and adjunct fellow at the Manhattan Institute for Policy Research.

Jane Waldfogel is professor of social work and public affairs at the Columbia University School of Social Work and visiting professor at the Centre for Analysis of Social Exclusion at the London School of Economics and Political Science.

Christopher Winship is Diker-Tishman Professor of Sociology at Harvard University and member of the senior faculty at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government.

Jim Wyckoff is professor in the Curry School of Education at the University of Virginia and director of the Center on Education Policy and Workforce Competitiveness.