INTRODUCTION

The idea of using a telegraphic code in connection with charitable work originated with the National Conference of Jewish Charities in 1900. This body has also had a standing committee to arbitrate disagreements between agencies as to facts or decisions involving charitable transportation ever since.

The great waste and hardship of the "passing on" and "dumping" systems practised by so many agencies both public and private, in their transportation relief, was first considered by a body representing every form of charitable work when the National Conference of Charities and Correction took the matter up in one of its section meetings in 1903. This section authorized the preparation of a code, which was later adopted by the Jewish charities also, who had already bound themselves to observe transportation rules practically identical with those herein given.

INTRODUCTION

The idea of an inter-organization agreement in connection with charitable transportation seems to have originated in 1899 at a preliminary meeting in Cincinnati at which steps were taken for the organization of a National Conference of Jewish Charities. A year later, after a full discussion, certain "Transportation Rules" were adopted by this organization. These are still in force.

In 1902, the same subject was discussed at the National Conference of Charities and Correction, at a meeting of the Section on Needy Families. A committee was appointed which, at the Conference of 1903, presented a set of rules similar to those of the Jewish Charities and a Telegraphic Code. With some modifications these rules were published in 1904, with the names of 139 charitable agencies which had signed them. Later the same Telegraphic Code was adopted by the National Conference of Jewish Charities.

In 1910, the Executive Committee of the National Conference is not a body which usually assumes executive power, this particular matter affected so many and such diverse charitable interests that no agency of narrower scope seemed fitted to deal with it. It has named a Committee on Transportation, therefore, to formulate rules and arbitrate differences in their application, and has appointed the Russell Sage Foundation to act as its agents in issuing and distributing this Code, in securing signers to the Transportation Agreement, and in forwarding complaints and appeals for arbitration. All communications with regard to these should be addressed to the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, Room 613, 105 East Twenty-second street, New York City.

of Charities and Correction authorized its President to name each year a Committee on Transportation, to amend or supplement the rules at any time and to arbitrate differences in their application. This committee has appointed the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation to act as its agent in issuing and distributing the Agreement and Code, in securing signers to the Agreement, and in forwarding complaints and appeals for arbitration. The committee, as arbiter, has no legal power to enforce its rulings, an enlightened opinion among the signers, considering the common good, being relied upon to secure compliance. All communications with regard to these matters should be addressed to the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, 130 East 22d Street, New York City.

RULES BINDING SIGNERS of the TRANSPORTATION AGREEMENT

NOTE

A. The word "transportation," as used in the following paragraphs, includes all transportation paid for or issued upon recommendation of charitable societies or public relief officials.

B. The word "he" means he, she, or they as the context in any case will suggest, and the word "applicant" includes the family group for whom transportation is desired.

C. "Charity," as used in these rules, includes any general charitable organization, public or private, upon which the applicant in question has no claim through membership, blood relationship, or through the society's definite promise to aid him.

D. In some of the following paragraphs "shall" is used, in others "should" or "may." The former word is mandatory and the phrases in which it is used are to be accepted as binding upon all signers of these rules. Where "should" or "may" is used the paragraph is only a suggestion which signers may observe or not, at their discretion.

I.—FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

Before any charitable transportation shall be granted the organization or official having the matter under consideration must be satisfied, by adequate and reliable evidence—

RULES BINDING SIGNERS of the TRANSPORTATION AGREEMENT

NOTE

A. The word "transportation," as used in the following paragraphs, includes all transportation paid for or issued upon recommendation of charitable societies or public relief officials.

B. The word "he" means he, she, or they as the context in any case will suggest, and the word "applicant" includes the family group for whom transportation is desired.

C. "Charity," as used in these rules, includes any general charitable organization, public or private, upon which the applicant in question has no claim through membership, blood relationship, or through the society's definite promise to aid him.

D. In some of the following paragraphs "shall" is used, in others "should" or "may." The former word is mandatory and the phrases in which it is used are to be accepted as binding upon all signers of these rules. Where "should" or "may" is used the paragraph is only a suggestion which signers may observe or not, at their discretion.

I.—FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

Before any charitable transportation shall be granted the organization or official having the matter under consideration must be satisfied, by adequate and reliable evidence—

- First.* That the applicant is unable to pay the regular fare.
Second. That the applicant's condition and prospects will be substantially improved by sending him to the place in question.
Third. That the applicant will have such resources for maintenance at the point of destination as will save him from becoming dependent on charity; or,
Fourth. That the applicant has a legal residence in the place to which he is to be sent or is a proper charge upon the charity of that community.

II.—VERIFICATION

An applicant's statements must in every case be substantiated by other definite, reliable evidence. When this is lacking the applicant should be taken care of, if necessary, until the needful testimony is secured.

III.—DESTINATION NOTIFIED

In all cases an appropriate charitable organization or official,

if such exists, at the point of destination should be promptly advised that the applicant's transportation to that place is under consideration, or has already been determined upon.

When a signer of these rules is listed as being located at the proposed point of destination, it shall not be legitimate to send the applicant thither unless notification is sent to the signer before the transportation is furnished or upon the day when it is provided.

In exceptional cases where the sender has reasons for desiring that no record be kept by the charitable agency at the point of destination, the matter may be explained to the latter, who shall then preserve no record unless the case is known through sources independent of the sender.

IV.—INQUIRIES AT DESTINATION

It is strongly recommended that a report be secured from an appropriate charitable organization or official in the city to which

- First.* That the applicant is unable to pay the regular fare.
Second. That the applicant's condition and prospects will be substantially improved by sending him to the place in question.
Third. That the applicant will have such resources for maintenance at the point of destination as will save him from becoming dependent on charity; or,

II.—VERIFICATION

An applicant's statements must in every case be substantiated by other definite, reliable evidence. When this is lacking the applicant should be taken care of, if necessary, until the needful testimony is secured.

III.—DESTINATION NOTIFIED

In all cases an appropriate charitable organization or official,

if such exists, at the point of destination should be promptly advised that the applicant's transportation to that place is under consideration, or has already been determined upon.

When a signer of these rules is listed as being located at the proposed point of destination, it shall not be legitimate to send the applicant thither unless notification is sent to the signer before the transportation is furnished or upon the day when it is provided.

In exceptional cases where the sender has reasons for desiring that no record be kept by the charitable agency at the point of destination, the matter may be explained to the latter, who shall then preserve no record unless the case is known through sources independent of the sender.

IV.—INQUIRIES AT DESTINATION

It is strongly recommended that a report be secured from an appropriate charitable organization or official in the city to which

transportation is desired, before any applicant is sent thither. This is especially urged when a signer of these rules is listed as being located at the point of destination.

All signers have definitely announced themselves as willing to co-operate with other signers by making reasonable efforts to secure needful information and to determine whether transportation ought to be provided in any given case. Other charitable agencies, also, are usually glad to make any legitimate inquiries and reports which fall within the range of their customary activities.

V.—THROUGH TRANSPORTATION REQUIRED

All charitable transportation provided shall, in every instance, be adequate; that is, the initial or original sender shall provide for the applicant through to his ultimate destination. When charity rates are obtainable at intermediate points, and not obtainable at point of departure, the initial sender may enlist the services of some charitable agency at the intermediate point in obtaining such rates upon arrival of the applicant, all expenses to be borne by the initial sender.

VI.—“PASSING-ALONG” FORBIDDEN

If an applicant has been aided to reach a place intermediate to the point of his proper destination, without means having been provided for forwarding him to the latter, then no further transportation shall be granted without inquiry of the charitable organization or individual who sent the applicant thither. This correspondent shall be requested to remit the amount necessary either to forward the applicant to his destination or to return him to the starting point. If a satisfactory response is not promptly made, the applicant should be returned to the place where his charitable transportation originated. In no case shall he be “passed along” to another community which has no adequate responsibility for him.

transportation is desired, before any applicant is sent thither. This is especially urged when a signer of these rules is listed as being located at the point of destination.

All signers have definitely announced themselves as willing to co-operate with other signers by making reasonable efforts to secure needful information and to determine whether transportation ought to be provided in any given case. If a satisfactory response is not promptly made, the applicant should be returned to the place where his charitable transportation originated. In no case shall he be “passed along” to another community which has no adequate responsibility for him.

VII.—DEPENDENTS RETURNABLE TO SENDERS

If an applicant who has been provided with charitable transportation without the approval of an appropriate charitable agency at the point of destination, shall there become dependent on charity within nine months after his arrival, then the charitable organization or individual who sent him thither should be notified and requested to provide for the applicant's necessities or to remit the money necessary to return him to the place from which his transportation was provided.

VIII.—MAINTENANCE PENDING ADJUSTMENT

If an applicant has been forwarded in violation of any of these rules, the charitable agency which provided him with transportation should be requested to bear the reasonable, necessary expense of providing for him temporarily, pending investigation and the proper disposal of the case.

IX.—RECORDS TO BE PRESERVED

The society or official through whom charitable transportation is procured shall in each case preserve a full record of all the essential facts upon which the granting of transportation has been based.

A copy or summary of such record should be furnished promptly on request to any charitable organization or official interested in the case. When such request for a digest of the record comes from a signer of these rules, it shall be considered mandatory upon any other signer.

X.—EMPLOYMENT SEEKERS

In case of persons asking charitable transportation on the ground of being able to secure employment in the place to which transportation is desired, definite, reliable assurances of employment must be obtained as part of the necessary evidence. A

X.—EMPLOYMENT SEEKERS

In case of persons asking charitable transportation on the ground of being able to secure employment in the place to which transportation is desired, definite, reliable assurances of employment must be obtained as part of the necessary evidence. A general report that conditions of employment are better, or that the applicant should be "better off" in the place specified, shall not be considered sufficient grounds for the granting of transportation.

XI.—PROMPT ANSWERS TO CODE INQUIRIES

Organizations and individuals who agree to these rules thereby pledge themselves to keep a copy of the Rules and the Telegraphic Code conveniently at hand, and to use all due diligence in making reasonable inquiries requested by other signers of the rules and in replying to communications regarding transportation cases.

XII.—HEALTH CERTIFICATES IN EPIDEMICS

Persons forwarded by charitable agencies or officials from places where any contagious or infectious disease is known to be epidemic, must be provided with the proper health certificates.

XIII.—APPEAL IN CASE OF DISAGREEMENT

When disagreement, as to facts or decisions, arises in regard to any transportation case, one or both the parties concerned may appeal to the Committee on Transportation of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, sending the appeal through the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, Room 613, 105 E. 22d St., New York.

XIV.—PUBLIC OFFICIALS

Poor law officials may return any person who becomes a public charge to his place of proven legal residence without the consent of that community.

New York City, N.Y.	Industrial Removal Office	David M. Bressler, 174 2d Ave.
New York City, N.Y.	E. A. R. Relief Committee	Robert McGuire, Room 3, City Hall

*The Industrial Removal Office has been expressly released by the National Conference of Jewish Charities from observing certain portions of the rules, and the office is therefore technically not a signer, though practically it is. The work of the office is national in character and the principles upon which it works are, that a newly arrived immigrant is sent to any city in the country he immediately becomes a resident of that city; thus the Office is really a part of a system for the dispersion of immigrants, and not for the issuance of charity hall rates. On the other hand, the office never sends persons excepting to places where they are definitely organized and where there is either a paid officer or a committee to look after the new arrivals. Such committees may provide for any immediate financial needs while the individual or persons are being established.

In case any person claiming to be sent out by the Office wanders from one city to another, the society coming in touch with such a person should first find to what city he was originally sent and to what people. It should then communicate with that committee and learn as to the disposition. It is probable that the committee will report back stating that the man has violated an agreement and that he should be left to shift for himself. In the event that it is impossible to locate definitely a local committee, then the Industrial Removal Office should be communicated with by letter or wire (by code) asking for advice on the matter. Whenever there is a Jewish society in the city, the applicant should be turned over to it to deal with without further parley.

dispersion of immigrants, and not for the issuance of charity half rates. On the other hand, the Office never sends persons excepting to places where they are definitely organized and where there is either a paid officer or a committee to look after the new arrivals. Such committees may provide for any immediate financial needs while the individual or persons are being established.

In case any person claiming to be sent out by the Office wanders from one city to another, the society coming in touch with such a person should first find to what city he was originally sent and to what people. It should then communicate with that committee and learn as to the disposition. It is probable that the committee will report back stating that the man has violated an agreement and that he should be left to shift for himself. In the event that it is impossible to locate definitely a local committee, then the Industrial Removal Office should be communicated with by letter or wire (by code) asking for advice on the matter. Whenever there is a Jewish society in the city, the applicant should be turned over to it to deal with without further parley.
