

Contributors

JEANNE BROOKS-GUNN is Virginia and Leonard Marx Professor of Child Development at Teachers College, Columbia University. She is also director of the Center for Children and Families and founder of the Adolescent Study Program at Teachers College.

GREG J. DUNCAN is professor of education and social policy and a faculty associate in the Institute for Policy Research at Northwestern University. He is also faculty affiliate of the Northwestern University/University of Chicago Joint Center for Poverty Research.

J. LAWRENCE ABER is director of the National Center for Children in Poverty at the Columbia School of Public Health, Columbia University.

DANIEL AARONSON is an economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

PRUDENCE BROWN is research fellow at the Chapin Hall Center for Children at the University of Chicago.

LINDA M. BURTON is professor of human development and family studies and sociology at the Pennsylvania State University.

THOMAS D. COOK is professor of sociology, psychology, education, and social policy and faculty fellow at the Institute for Policy Research, Northwestern University.

CLAUDIA J. COULTON is professor at the Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences. She is also codirector of the Center on Urban Poverty and Social Change at Case Western Reserve University.

NANCY DARLING is assistant professor of human development and family studies at the Pennsylvania State University.

SERDAR M. DEĞIRMENCIOĞLU is developmental psychologist and postdoctoral fellow at the Institute for Policy Research, Northwestern University.

FRANK F. FURSTENBERG, JR., is Zellerbach Family Professor of Sociology at the University of Pennsylvania.

MARTHA A. GEPHART is adjunct professor in the Department of Organization and Leadership at Teachers College, Columbia University. She is also senior research associate at the International Center for Cooperation and Conflict Resolution at Teachers College.

MARY ELIZABETH HUGHES is postdoctoral fellow at the Population Research Center, NORC, and the University of Chicago.

ROBIN L. JARRETT is associate professor of human and community development at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

SHEILA B. KAMERMAN is codirector of the Cross-National Studies Research Program and professor at the Columbia University School of Social Work.

TEDD JAY KOCHMAN is an attorney in the New York office of the Chicago-based law firm of McDermott, Will & Emery, where he specializes in labor and employment law.

JILL E. KORBIN is professor of anthropology at Case Western Reserve University.

TAMA LEVENTHAL is doctoral candidate in developmental psychology at Teachers College, Columbia University. She is also graduate fellow at the Center for Children and Families.

PAUL A. MCDERMOTT is professor in the Psychology in Education Division of the Graduate School of Education at the University of Pennsylvania.

JEFFREY D. MORENOFF is doctoral candidate in the Sociology Department at the University of Chicago.

TOWNSAND PRICE-SPRATLEN is assistant professor of sociology at The Ohio State University.

HAROLD A. RICHMAN is director of the Chapin Hall Center for Children at the University of Chicago. He is also the Hermon Dunlap Smith Professor of Social Welfare Policy at the University of Chicago.

ROBERT J. SAMPSON is professor of sociology at the University of Chicago. He is also research fellow of the American Bar Foundation.

MARGARET BEALE SPENCER is the Board of Overseers Professor, Developmental Psychologist in the Psychology in Education Division of the Graduate School of Education at the University of Pennsylvania. She is also director of the Center for Health, Achievement, Neighborhood, Growth and Ethnic Studies (CHANGES) at the University of Pennsylvania.

SHOBHA C. SHAGLE is research associate at the Institute for Policy Research, Northwestern University.

LAURENCE STEINBERG is professor of psychology at Temple University.