

~ Contents ~

	About the Authors	vii
Part I	Historical Background, Theoretical Framework, and Sociodemographic Context	1
Chapter 1	Introduction: Immigration and the Color Line in America	3
Chapter 2	Theoretical Perspectives on Color Lines in the United States	23
Chapter 3	What Is This Person's Race? The Census and the Construction of Racial Categories	35
Chapter 4	Immigration and the Geography of the New Ethnoracial Diversity	55
Part II	Individual Experiences of Diversity: From Multiraciality to Multiracial Identification	81
Chapter 5	The Cultural Boundaries of Ethnoracial Status and Inter marriage	83
Chapter 6	What About the Children? Interracial Families and Ethnoracial Identification	101
Chapter 7	Who Is Multiracial? The Cultural Reproduction of the One-Drop Rule	121
Chapter 8	From Racial to Ethnic Status: Claiming Ethnicity Through Culture	137

Part III	The Empirical and Policy Significance of Diversity: Generalization and Paradox	155
Chapter 9	Ethnoracial Diversity, Minority-Group Threat, and Boundary Dissolution: Clarifying the Diversity Paradox With James D. Bachmeier	157
Chapter 10	Conclusion: The Diversity Paradox and Beyond (Plus Ça Change, Plus C'est la Même Chose)	181
	Appendix: Methodological Approach	195
	References	205
	Index	00