

About the Authors |

FREDRIK ANDERSSON is research fellow at the U.S. Census Bureau and research associate at the Urban Institute.

HARRY J. HOLZER is professor of public policy at Georgetown University, visiting fellow at the Urban Institute, and former chief economist at the U.S. Department of Labor.

JULIA I. LANE is senior research fellow at the U.S. Census Bureau, program director at the National Science Foundation, and former director of the Employment Dynamics Program at the Urban Institute.

SIMON BURGESS is professor of economics at the University of Bristol and director of the Centre for Market and Public Organisation.

ERIKA MCENTARFER is economist at the U.S. Census Bureau.