

Contributors

Francine D. Blau is Frances Perkins Professor of Industrial and Labor Relations at the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell University and research associate of the National Bureau of Economic Research in Cambridge, Massachusetts. At Cornell University, she is also research director of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, co-director of the Institute for Labor Market Policy, and a faculty associate of the Cornell Employment and Family Careers Institute.

Ronald G. Ehrenberg is the Irving M. Ives Professor of Industrial and Labor Relations and Economics and Vice President for Academic Programs Planning and Budgeting at Cornell University. He is also research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research and co-director of Institute for Labor Market Policy, Cornell University.

Barbara R. Bergmann writes on social policy issues. Her latest book is Saving Our Children From Poverty: What the United States Can Learn from France (Russell Sage Foundation).

Rebecca M. Blank is professor of economics at Northwestern University. She is also director of the Northwestern University/University of Chicago Joint Center for Poverty Research.

Ileen A. DeVault is associate professor of labor history in the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell University.

Paula England is professor of sociology at the University of Arizona. She is also an affiliate of the Women's Studies Program.

Marianne A. Ferber is professor emerita of economics and women's studies at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

Claudia Goldin is professor of economics at Harvard University. She is also director of the Program on the Development of the American Economy at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Jonathan Gruber is associate professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Marjorie Honig is professor of economics at Hunter College and the Graduate School of the City University of New York. She is also chair of the Department of Economics at Hunter College.

Lawrence F. Katz is professor of economics at Harvard University and research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Jacob Alex Klerman is a senior economist at RAND in Santa Monica, California, and a member of the faculty of RAND Graduate School.

Renee M. Landers is deputy general counsel in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Arleen Leibowitz is professor in the School of Public Policy at the University of California, Los Angeles, and a senior economist at RAND in Santa Monica, California.

Janice Fanning Madden is the Robert C. Daniels Term Professor of Urban Studies, Regional Science, Sociology, and Real Estate at the University of Pennsylvania. She is also vice provost for graduate education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Olivia S. Mitchell is the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans Professor of Insurance and Risk Management and executive director of the Pension Research Council at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania.

H. Elizabeth Peters is an associate professor in the Department of Policy Analysis and Management at Cornell University.

Solomon W. Polachek is distinguished professor of economics at the State University of New York, Binghamton. He is also dean of Harpur College of Arts and Sciences.

James B. Rebitzer is associate professor at the Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Cordelia W. Reimers is professor of economics at Hunter College and the Graduate School of the City University of New York.

Donna S. Rothstein is research economist at the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics in the Office of Employment Research and Program Development.

Christopher J. Ruhm is professor of economics at the University of North Carolina-Greensboro. He is also research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Myra H. Strober is professor of education and affiliated professor of economics at Stanford University.

Lowell J. Taylor is associate professor at the Heinz School of Public Policy and Management, Carnegie Mellon University.

Jackqueline L. Teague is research economist in the Center for Economics Research at Research Triangle Institute.

Jane Waldfogel is assistant professor of social work at Columbia University.

Michael Waldman is professor of economics at the Johnson Graduate School of Management, Cornell University.