

About the Authors

CAROLYN J. HEINRICH is director of the La Follette School of Public Affairs, professor of public affairs and affiliated professor of economics, and associate director of research and training at the Institute for Research on Poverty at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

JOHN KARL SCHOLZ is professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

JAYANTA BHATTACHARYA is associate professor of medicine at Stanford University and faculty research fellow at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

REBECCA M. BLANK is Robert S. Kerr Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution and research associate with the National Bureau of Economic Research.

GREG J. DUNCAN is Distinguished Professor of Education at the University of California, Irvine.

DAVID N. FIGLIO is Orrington Lunt Professor of Education, Social Policy and Economics and faculty fellow at the Institute for Policy Research at Northwestern University, and research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research.

LISA GENNETIAN is senior research director of economic studies at the Brookings Institution.

JANET C. GORNICK is professor of political science and sociology at the Graduate Center, City University of New York and director of the Luxembourg Income Study.

BRIAN K. KOVAK is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Economics at the University of Michigan.

MARCIA K. MEYERS is professor of social work and public affairs at the University of Washington and director of the West Coast Poverty Center.

About the Authors

PAMELA MORRIS is codirector of the policy area on family well-being and children's development at MDRC.

DAVID NEUMARK is professor of economics at the University of California, Irvine, senior fellow at the Public Policy Institute of California, research associate at the National Bureau of Economics Research, and research fellow at IZA.

STEVEN RAPHAEL is professor of public policy at the Goldman School of Public Policy at the University of California, Berkeley.

PETER RICHMOND is research assistant at the Center for Health Policy and Center for Primary Care and Outcomes Research (CHP/PCOR) at Stanford University.

R. KENT WEAVER is professor at the Public Policy Institute at Georgetown University and senior fellow in governance studies at the Brookings Institution.