Contributors

Ethan B. Kapstein is the Paul Dubrule Professor of Sustainable Development at Insead Business School, Fontainebleau, France, and the Stassen Professor of International Peace, University of Minnesota.

Branko Milanovic is lead economist in the policy research division, World Bank.

Nicholas Barr is professor of public economics at the London School of Economics.

Nancy Birdsall is senior associate at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Ricardo Fuentes is a graduate student in economics at Pompeu Fabra University in Barcelona, Spain. Previously, he was in the Research Department of the Inter-American Development Bank.

Stephan Haggard is professor at the Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Affairs, University of California, San Diego.

Iqbal Kaur is a social protection specialist at the World Bank, Middle East and North Africa Region.

Peter H. Lindert is professor of economics and director of the Agricultural History Center at the University of California, Davis.

Miguel Székely is chief of the Office of Regional Development of the Presidency of Mexico. He worked as research economist at the Inter-American Development Bank from 1996 to 2001.

Zafiris Tzannatos was, at the time of writing this book, manager of social protection in the Middle East and North Africa Region of the World Bank. He is currently adviser to the managing director of the World Bank.