

Russell Sage Foundation Press Statement of Inclusion

The Russell Sage Foundation (RSF) is committed to publishing high quality social science research in its core program areas and to supporting intellectual discourse by authors regardless of their race, gender identity, sexuality, age, nationality, and discipline. We actively encourage scholars who are underrepresented in the social sciences or who teach at under-resourced institutions to publish with RSF. The Director of Publications can provide more information about the types of support available.